

RESTORE Conference 2015

Implementing migrant care initiatives, beyond language and cultural barriers

University of Limerick / Ireland / March 26th - 27th 2015

RESTORE is combining Participatory Learning and Action research and Normalisation Process Theory to optimise primary healthcare for migrants in Europe

Speakers & Discussants

Migrant Service Users
from across Europe

Dr. Alexander Bischoff
Hospitaux Universitaires de Genève'

Ms. Roumyana Petrova
Benedict International Organisation for Migration Brussels

Dr. Santino Severoni
World Health Organisation

Prof. Carl May
University of Southampton, UK

Dr. Lilja Gretarsdottir
Council of Europe

Prof. David Ingleby
University of Amsterdam

Dr. Joe Le Master
Kansas Medical School, USA

Prof. Chris van Weel
Radboud University Medical Center Nijmegen & Australian National University

Conference Themes

Communication in cross-cultural consultations – the value of guidelines and training

Developing culturally-sensitive primary care in Europe for migrants - the role of education for health care workers

European health policy for migrant health – the need for evolution

Migrants' involvement in healthcare research - toward meaningful involvement

Economic austerity - impact on improving communication in cross-cultural consultations

Innovative implementation research – the impact of theory and method in 'real-world' practice settings

For More Information Contact: restoreconference@ul.ie

This project has received funding from the European Union's Seventh Programme for research, technological development and demonstration under grant agreement No 257258

www.fp7restore.eu